

ABSTRACT

A pull-out guide for drawers comprises a carcass rail, a central rail mounted displaceably in relation to the latter, and a pull-out rail mounted displaceably in relation to the central rail. The movement of the central rail is synchronized by a control roller. The control roller with a hard body and a soft body is mounted on a spindle which is elliptical in cross section.